

Identifying global trends to capture long-term growth

Why invest?

C WorldWide uses a thematic approach to identify long-term, global structural growth trends in demographic, global consumer, technology, resource and political areas. Then, they pick stable growth stocks that align with these trends.

To help capture the potential for long-term growth when constructing the fund’s portfolio, the portfolio management team strategically focuses on large-capitalization companies that operate in stable, unregulated industries, which have only a few key players and pricing power. The team also looks at environmental, social and governance (ESG) factors, valuation and competitive advantages, to help determine the company’s potential future financial performance.

Investment objective

The Fund seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation by investing primarily in equity securities of companies in any country outside of Canada and the United States. The Fund may obtain this exposure by investing directly in securities, by investing in securities of other investment funds, or by a combination of these means.

Investment philosophy: using top-down stock selection to generate consistent returns

C WorldWide focuses on global trends and long-term investments to create a concentrated portfolio of stocks that can help generate consistent returns over the long term, regardless of market volatility.
